

Cirrus Identity Product Highlights

Cirrus Identity Log API Add-On is Now Available!

Retrieve Cirrus Identity log data for import into your organization's enterprise log tools.

This add-on allows you access to a REST-based API to retrieve event logs and stream them into an enterprise log management system, such as a Security Incident and Event Management (SIEM) tool. SIEM, and other integrations with the Cirrus Identity Log API Add-On, allow you to see logs from Cirrus Identity products alongside logs from other systems for investigative or analytical purposes. In addition to subscribing to the Cirrus Identity Log API Add-On, customers will need resources at their organization to connect the Cirrus Identity Log API Add-On to a system of choice. If streaming is not required, a rolling 35 days of usage metrics are available to download from the Cirrus Identity Console for no additional subscription fee.

Log API Add-On Base Features

- Access to the event logs from a REST-based API endpoint
- Ability to filter event logs based on product, event type, or tenant

Thanks to the University of Chicago, Carnegie Mellon University, and the University of Nevada - Las Vegas for participating in the Log API beta program and providing valuable feedback.

Cirrus Identity Customer Highlights

Streamlining Applicant Access - Use Slate Credentials for Access!

In preparation for Fall admissions, Cirrus Identity has been helping applicants use their Slate username and password to access applications! Applicants can view financial aid offers in applications like CampusLogic or housing offers in applications like StarRez, as well as access other systems. This means that only students who submit their "intent to register" require a student username and password. Applicants are happy because they don't need to remember another password and IAM teams are happy because they don't have to worry about deleting accounts for applicants that don't decide to attend. It's a win-win! Cirrus Identity has implemented this pattern at a number of schools, including UMass Dartmouth, Dominican University, and the University of Indianapolis.

Letter from Dedra Chamberlin, CEO

Happy Summer Solstice!

2024 has been busy with lots of conferences and new customers. It has been wonderful connecting with the IAM community and seeing familiar faces across the world!

With graduation now over, we know that many IAM teams are quickly preparing for the fall start of term. Cirrus Identity can help with the evolving IAM landscape.

We are excited to launch the Log API Add-On and have many new improvements in motion to help further streamline authentication.
